CHARLES M. COURBOIN

Miss Charlotte Marchand,
The Lewiston Evening Journal
Lewiston, Maine.

Dear Madam,

I am sending you, as per your wish, 2 photographs, (the one on the organ console is taken on the world's largest organ, 6 manuals 30125 pipes, blown by 6 large blowers totaling 209 Horse Power. Practically all the latest improvements have been of my design, when I was connected with Wanamaker in Phila.

Father Marchand has by now all press material as well as the program, and I would suggest you get in touch with him.

Incidentally an organ of my design, a large one is now being built by the same organ company which has built St Peter and Paul's organ in Leicester. It is to go for Marlinton New Jersey Seminary (R.C.) for young priests. and will be dedicated by Archbishop Walsh of New Jersey this November. - I am to play the opening recital. - My next recital after Leicester will be the dedicatory recital of a large organ in the 1st M.E. Church in York, Penna. Oct 11th

I am giving you at random a few news, which I haven't given Father Marchand.
If you want a very interesting article, I would suggest you look up last year's
"New Yorker" interview of June 26th (page 14
- 15. - It has a great deal of "everything".
I hope to make your acquaintance and, many thanks
Sincerely,

Charles M. Coulson.

Sept 14 <sup>38</sup>.
